Based on period from:	01/01/2020
Total Expense	0.29%
Transaction Costs	0.00%
Total Investment Charge	0.29%
1 Year Total Expense	0.29%

Total Expense (TER): This ratio shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over the period shown and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER should not be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): This ratio shows the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the fund's underlying assets. TC are a necessary cost in administering the fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Commentary

Fund review

The review of the S&P South Africa Sovereign Bond 1+ Year Index (SPFIZAA) in Q4 2022 saw no changes to the index. The fund performed in line with the Index. The R186 Government bond remained the largest bond in the fund and its yield decreased from 8.75% to 8.42% and its modified duration decreased from 3.22 to 2.99 over the quarter. The fund's yield decreased from 10.68% to 10.49% and its modified duration increased from 6.06 to 6.17 over the quarter.

Market overview

Global headlines in the first quarter of 2023 were dominated by increasing cracks in the banking system becoming more evident and the resultant concerns around contagion risk, highlighted by the Silicon Valley Bank crash and UBS's acquisition of Credit Suisse. Despite these events, Q1 2023 saw resilience in the equity markets where the MSCI World returned 7.73% and the MSCI EM returned 3.96%. The MSCI EMEA, however, bucked the trend at -2.20%. The US Federal Reserve increased its benchmark federal-funds rate twice this year, raising it by 25 basis points each time. As a result, the funds rate concluded the quarter within a range of 4.75%-5.00%, which represents its highest level since 2007. In South Africa, the energy crisis continues to weigh down on the productivity of many small businesses and households, contributing negatively to the economic growth outlook, with an expected 0.2% growth in GDP for 2023. The election of a Minister of Electricity, Dr Kgosientsho Ramokgopa, signals the presidency's intention to end loadshedding and many South Africans are waiting to see if the minister will indeed fulfil his mandate of bringing businesses and citizens out of the dark. Local indices finished Q1 2023 in the red with the FTSE/JSE Top 40 Index down 0.8%, the FTSE/JSE All Share Index down 1.3% and the FTSE/JSE Capped SWIX Index down 2.0%. Healthcare Sector finished the first quarter up 21.49% solidly followed by Consumer Discretionary which was up 19.59%. Looking at the fixed income and currency markets, the FTSE/JSE ALBI outperformed equity indices and returned 3.42%, while the STeFI returned 1.77%. The ZAR weakened by 4.45% relative to the USD.

Looking ahead

Locally, the energy crisis continues to have a significant impact on job creation, production, and overall economic growth, affecting consumer and business confidence. Furthermore, energy experts predict worsening power cuts over the coming winter months. The situation seems bleak, especially after the National State of Disaster on electricity supply was recently revoked. Specifically, the cost of electricity will rise by 18.7% in the financial year of 2023/24, with inflation coming under more pressure and which may lead to further tightening of monetary policy in the second quarter of 2023. Analysts predict that the South African Reserve Bank (SARB) will follow the US Federal Reserve's lead and raise its benchmark lending rate in Q2 2023, as we approach the upper limit of the interest rate cycle and CPI. However, these increases will put additional pressure on consumers who are already struggling with debt, resulting in higher loan repayments and limited disposable income. The US outlook includes apprehensions around a 2023 recession due to monetary tightening, pending relief of inflationary pressure to allow for central banks to potentially begin easing. The current forecast of the markets suggests that the Bank of England's base rate will increase to 4.5% by Q2 2023, but it's uncertain if the bank will be capable of raising the rates by that much, given the current economic environment. In Asian markets, the prompt reopening and consumption recovery of China will continue to deliver a considerable boost to the region's economy, resulting in an overall enhancement in manufacturing and services PMIs throughout Asia (PMI data has been strong thus far). The possibility of reduced reliance on the dollar for international trade has gained global momentum, as countries such as Brazil and China recently agreed to trade using their own currencies. Despite these developments, the US dollar still dominates the global economy, representing 60% of foreign reserves, making it unlikely to lose its status as the global reserve currency in the near future.
